The city of Nafplion was the first capital of the newly-established Greek state from 1823 to 1834. According to mythology, the city owes its name to the settler Nafplio, son of Poseidon and Amymonis. During ancient times, Nafplio was basically in the shadow of Argos, serving as its port from the 7th century BC.

Mycenae was the kingdom of mythical Agamemnon and is considered to be the most important and richest palace of the Late Bronze Age in Greece. It had been inhabited from 2500 BC. The brightest era of their history coincides with the Late Bronze Age from 1600 to approximately 1110 BC. In this period belong most of the – to this date- visible findings.

The Byzantine Castle of Mystras is geographically located on the southern side of Peloponnese, close to Sparta Town. The Castle is an old town surrounded by Byzantine walls and with an imposing palace on top of the hill. Most of all this place is famous for its Byzantine churches with the impressive frescoes inside. At the foot of the hill is the modern village of Mystras, with traditional architecture and nice squares.

Holidays in Mystras can be combined with visits to lovely close destinations, like Monemvasia and Gythio.

Surrounded by mounts Taygetos and Parnon, Sparta was once the kingdom of Menelaus and his beautiful queen, the most beautiful of all mortal women of her age, Helen. Broad streets full of trees, large squares, neoclassical buildings and nice hotels, scented by the olive, orange and lemon trees of the nearby valley of the Eurotas River: this is Sparta!

Monemvasia, founded by the Byzantines in the sixth century, is a breathtaking medieval tower town located on the south-eastern coast of the Peloponnese. Take the opportunity to explore this mystical stone-built settlement, nestled at the edge of a big rock by the sea, and immerse yourself in a unique medieval atmosphere! Upon entering the castle, your journey through time begins. Peer into the history of the fortress –the so-called “Gibraltar of the East”–, which was occupied by the Byzantines, the Crusaders, the Venetians, and the Turks in the past. Wander around its narrow cobbled streets, and admire the beautifully restored stone buildings. Taste culinary delights at a fine restaurant on the roof of a tower house, and spend a romantic night at a stone-built tower. The “Kastro” (castle) is divided into two parts, the lower and upper town.

Ancient Greeks believed that Delphi was the Navel of the Earth, a place seen as a spiritual focal point for all Greeks; it included many sanctuaries and the most prestigious oracle in all of ancient Greece. This is where Pythia, the high priestess, uttered the divine advice of god Apollo to mortals who travelled from across the world to seek a prophecy. Apart from Greeks, the Oracle was visited also by foreign leaders and dignitaries who were anxious to know the will of Apollo on important state affairs.

Arachova is a mountainous village nestling picturesquely at the foot of Mt. Parnassos in Viotia, Southern Greece. It is the most cosmopolitan winter destination in Greece, a great favourite for passionate ski lovers and celebrities, or just first-time visitors who wish to relax in a dreamy mountainous setting with modern tourism facilities.

Famous for its thermal baths, but also for maritime activities offered, the ancient town of Therma, the current Loutraki, spread along a magnificent sandy beach 4 km.

Situated among vineyards, the Domaine Skouras winery is an ultra-modern winemaking facility, with an elegant Greek architecture. Take the chance for a wine tasting experience and tour at the vineyards.

Within a modern village loom the extensive yet compact ruins of this ancient (mostly Roman) city. Home to legendary Jason of the Argonauts, stealer of the Golden Fleece, the streets of Ancient Corinth were once trodden by the likes of Pausanias, Roman traveller, and St Paul, who taught the gospel of Christ here.

Mycenae – the city of the legendary Agamemnon

We welcome you to the space we created to offer you particularly traditional Greek products, giving you unique taste pleasures!

The traditional Greek products resulted from the collaboration of two women from the wider region. They conceived the idea after a visit to the archaeological site of Mycenae. They realized that there is no store in the area selling traditional Greek products such as honey, oil, pasta, jams, wine from Nemea and other regions, cheese products, nuts, etc.
This is how this beautiful space was created, with a lot of love, which hosts more than 700 types of traditional Greek products, under the name "Traditional Greek Products".

The greatest and finest sanctuary of ancient Athens, dedicated primarily to its patron, the goddess Athena, dominates the centre of the modern city from the rocky crag known as the Acropolis.

The most celebrated myths of ancient Athens, its greatest religious festivals, earliest cults and several decisive events in the city's history are all connected to this sacred precinct. The monuments of the Acropolis stand in harmony with their natural setting. These unique masterpieces of ancient architecture combine different orders and styles of Classical art in a most innovative manner and have influenced art and culture for many centuries.

The Panathenaic Stadium or Kallimarmaro "beautiful marble" is a multi-purpose stadium in Athens, Greece. One of the main historic attractions of Athens, it is the only stadium in the world built entirely of marble.

Mikrolimano Harbour is a heavenly beautiful nook and the most photographed location in Athens that will appeal to everyone who likes discovering awesome places, freshly cooked fish, Greek coffee, and vibrant nightlife. It is located northeast of the Piraeus peninsula, bordering on the Neo Faliro coastal area.

The National Garden in Athens: Right in the heart of Athens, between Syntagma Square and the Panathenaic Stadium, lies the famous National Garden, a beautiful area to escape the noisy city center and relax in a lush environment. It is almost unbelievable that such an enticing garden is situated among the busiest avenues of the city yet remains so well-protected from noise.

The Lycabettus hill is a tourist destination and can be ascended by the Lycabettus Funicular, a funicular railway which climbs the hill from a lower terminus at Kolonaki (The railway station can be found at Aristippou street). At its two peaks are the 19th century Chapel of St. George, a theatre, and a restaurant.

The temple of Poseidon, the ancient Greek god of the sea, dominates the southernmost tip of Attica, where the horizon meets the Aegean Sea. Perched on the craggy rocks of Cape Sounio, the temple is enveloped in myth and historic facts dated from antiquity until the present times. There are stories about the ship of King Menelaus who stopped briefly at Sounio on his way back from Troy; or about the unfortunate King Aegeus who drowned himself on that spot and the Aegean Sea got named after him; or about the people who built a temple using local marble to honour the god of the sea and safeguard the profits from the neighbouring Lavrio mines.

The Hellenic Parliament in Athens: In the heart of Athens, north of Syntagma Square, stands an austere Neoclassical building that now houses the Parliament of Greece. The three-floor building has two entrances, one on the west side used for the entrance of the Members of the Parliament (MPs), and another on the front side, facing the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The National Gardens and Zappeion Megaron are situated adjacent to the Parliament.

It also offers free shuttle bus service from Doukissis Plakentias Metro station. As an extra bonus, the mall is located next to Attica Zoological Park and it is only 15 minutes by car from Athens International Airport.

Wild birds and animals just one hour from the centre of Athens... The Attica Zoological Park is the only zoo in Greece and it opened in 2000 by Jean-Jacques Lesueur, a French man who had created a large and unique bird collection. In search of a place to host this collection, Mr Lesueur created this park and later included not only birds but also animals. We spoke to Mrs Caroline Lesueur, who narrated us to the story of Attica Park.
